

Grant Proposal Writing Training Workshop

Road to develop a competitive and successful grant proposals

Speaker: Nicholas Case (BSSc (Hons), MBA)

Nick's passion for grant proposal writing and editing is evident through his training of faculty members in UGC-funded Universities in Hong Kong. He specializes in helping them craft successful grant proposals for the General Research Fund (GRF), which is equivalent to the Faculty Development Scheme (FDS) in self-financed institutes. With his extensive experience in editing grant proposals and providing valuable feedback, Nick conducts workshops where he draws insights from unsuccessful FDS applications to guide participants in enhancing their proposal writing skills for future applications. All faculty members interested in submitting FDS applications are strongly encouraged to join this training workshop, benefitting from Nick's infectious energy and comprehensive understanding of the field.
